

Your text

Characteristics of a creature are preserved if they promote its survival. The best known example of evolution is human evolution. Man is descended from ape-like ancestors and has changed so much in the course of various adaptations that today he bears little resemblance to his ape-like ancestors.

Submit

Prompts

Check the global cohesion of your explanation:

- Has the topic been sufficiently introduced to the readers?
- Are all the important concepts of the topic explained to the readers?
- Are the relationships between the concepts clearly described?
- Was the topic sufficiently illustrated with examples for the readers?

Check the local cohesion of your explanation:

- How can the local cohesion breaks be closed in order to increase the comprehensibility for the readers?
- Are there sufficient transitions between sentences for readers?
- Can readers easily make connections between the sentences?

Feedback

